REPORT

OF THE

SUPERINTENDING SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

The Committee, in visiting the schools of the town during the year, have found much more to commend than to censure. We believe that the teachers, as a general rule, have labored with great fidelity, and accomplished as much as is possible under the present system. We give a few suggestions upon some points which seem to us most to require attention.

The value of the schools would be much increased by greater uniformity of attendance. So far as can be estimated from the reports, the percentage of attendance to the whole number of pupils in the schools of the town, during the past year, has been about 82. Comparison with other places where the school system is most efficient, shows us to be behindhand in this respect. In the city of Boston (where, with such a mixed population, there is far less to favor regularity of attendance than in a country town), the per cent. of attendance is 94. And, as illustrating the value of faithful effort, it may be added that during the past twelve years the per cent. of attendance in Boston has increased from 84 in 1855 to 94 in 1867.

A still greater improvement than this might be made in the schools of our own town, if all parents realized the importance, to both the scholarship and character of their children, of uniformity of attendance.

A kindred evil to irregularity is tardiness. If pupils are allowed to be tardy, they inevitably gain the impression that school is a thing of secondary importance. They not only interrupt the good order of school, but themselves both enjoy less and improve less, than if they were punctual.

Your committee recommend that greater effort be made to secure permanence in teachers. Where a teacher has given satisfaction in a district, it is very desirable that the services of the same person be secured, if possible, for a series of terms. A teacher of only ordinary excellence, instructing the same school year after year, can secure more progress in pupils than a succession of superior teachers, each keeping the school only a single term.

During the year Guyot's Geographies have been introduced into all the schools of the town, superseding the various kinds,—Colton & Fitch's, Warren's and Cornell's,—previously in use. The committee regard the uniformity thus secured as in itself an important gain. Guyot's geographies differ in such essential respects from any before issued, that it may be well to say a few words of their peculiarities, especially as it has often happened, that those who at first did not like them have, after gaining an insight into the system, become their warmest advocates. The great peculiarity of Guyot's system is, that he gives physical geography its rightful priority to political. Instead of beginning with those arbitrary divisions into states and empires which man has made, he begins with the world as God made it. He first teaches the pupils (from the maps) the outlines of the continents, the great mountain ranges, highlands, plains and rivers. He then shews how these great features must regulate the climate and productions of different parts of the earth, and the settlements of civilized man. He thus leads pupils to see the connection of geographical facts. He makes geography a system,—a science. Thus learned, it will be remembered. But geography has commonly been presented as a series of unrelated facts, each of which must be remembered independently, and most of which, therefore, are quickly forgotten. Previous geographies have attempted to meet the difficulty by introducing a variety of historical and other interesting matter, to relieve the dryness of geographical detail. This has often been well done, but it does not secure the end aimed at, for the interest is fixed, not upon geography itself, but these other subjects. But Guyot strikes at the root of the difficulty. He aims to interest scholars in the conformation and peculiarities of the earth itself. This is the foundation of real and lasting geographical knowledge. And by his life-long and enthusiastic devotion to the study of geography, Guyot is better able to accomplish this result than almost any other living man.

Another special aim of Guyot's system is to cultivate independent thought in pupils, by its questions, and its whole method.

He also teaches a thorough system of map-drawing, which is important to pupils both for the acquisition of accurate knowledge of geography, and the improvement of their hand-writing. And we would here suggest to teachers the desirableness of familiarizing themselves with this system of map-drawing, that they may be able to give instruction in it.

Prof. Guyot has prepared wall-maps, to be used in connection with his geographies. It is very important that all our schools should be provided with a few of these. The author himself remarks, "Without such maps true geographical teaching is simply impossible." A little effort would secure one or more of them in nearly every district in town.

We will add one out of the many recommendations of these geographies which have been given. Prof. Agassiz says: "No other geographer living understands the relations of the physical features of our earth so well, or knows how to present them to students with such simplicity and clearness as Prof. Guyot."

We subjoin the reports of the several districts.

DISTRICT No. 1.—DIMOND'S CORNER.

Summer term was taught by Miss RHODA W. BARTLETT. The scholars are small,—but six of the twenty-four being over twelve, yet some of these promise well for the school in the future. Miss Bartlett has not had large experience, but she may be classed among our most reliable teachers. She is satisfied with nothing short of success, and is not afraid to say she has not reached the mark of her ideal. The improvement was all that could be expected.

Winter term was taught by Miss FANNIE C. DOW. Your committee made three visits and found the school in commendable order and interest. A restlessness was noticeable in both terms that marred, to some degree, the appearance of the school. This is often more difficult to overcome than open insubordination. The classes in reading and arithmetic bore a fair examination. The fact that Miss Dow is a member of the district, and but recently a member of the school, rendered her task more difficult. She reports the term “as pleasant,” the scholars “as studious,” and parents “as interested.”

DISTRICT No. 2.—LOWER VILLAGE.

The summer term was taught by Miss ANN J. CHASE. This was her first experience; and teaching, where, but a few months before she had been a scholar, it would not be surprising if she did not give entire satisfaction. This is like entering the battle while the foe has the advantage of position. But Miss Chase entered upon her work with a determination to do all that earnest work could do to secure success. She had no reason to be discouraged. There was a degree of unwillingness on the part of some to submit to the rules. But the school, as a whole, appeared well and made good progress.

The winter term was taught by Mr. SAMUEL DAVIS, one of the members of your committee. We should not do well to laud ourselves, though the other members of the Board would say that experience and ability were not wanting. There are but few advanced scholars. A very commendable enthusiasm was awakened in a large class of the second grade, and good progress was made. The school showed thorough drill in the foundation elements of scholarship.

DISTRICT No. 3.—NORTH VILLAGE.

Miss LYDIA B. SANBORN, a lady and teacher well-known in this town, taught the summer term. The school appeared well on our first and last visit. Order was maintained and good progress made.

The winter term was begun by Mr. HENRY TRUMBELL, but failing to keep order, combined with a failure of his own health, he left the school, and ALBERT P. DAVIS, Esq., finished the term. The term was so short that it is hard to speak of the progress made. No register has been returned by either teacher.

DISTRICT No. 4.—SCHOODAC.

The first term was taught by Miss HATTIE G. HEALD. To Miss Heald this was a new position, having never taught before. This is an excellent school and well advanced in the studies taught. There are some as good scholars in reading, arithmetic and grammar as any in town of their age. The younger classes made very decided improvement. Miss Heald has some very important qualities necessary to make a first-class teacher. She needs only experience and perseverance to make her work easy and pleasant.

The second term, taught by Miss MAY C. COLBY, was a complete success, as all her schools have been.

The school was visited by Mr. Hadley, Secretary of the Board of Education, who expressed himself as highly gratified in the examination of a class in reading and arithmetic. Miss Colby needs no other recommendation than a knowledge of her work.

DISTRICT No. 5.—PUMPKIN HILL.

Only one term, taught by Miss ELLA M. EASTMAN. The school was small, but diligence and interest in study were manifested. It was a successful term. Miss Eastman preserves good order in the school-room, is animated in her manner of hearing recitations, and awakens the interest of her pupils.

DISTRICT No. 6.—BURNT HILL.

Summer term taught by Miss NELLIE J. SARGENT. It was her first attempt at teaching, and we were pleased with her success. Her scholars were in the main small, and her government (though in her native district) was such as to secure their love and respect.

The winter term was under the supervision of Miss L. F. JOHNSON, of Sutton, a lady of long experience as a teacher, and, we believe, with uniform success. The discipline of the school was unexceptionable. The appearance of the classes in geography was worthy of particular notice. Excelsior!

DISTRICT No. 7.—KIMBALL.

No school last year, and but one term this, which was taught by Miss HATTIE M. BADGER. The field here is so small that it hardly affords room to display teaching qualities. This was Miss B's first term in teaching. The school was orderly, and made good improvement.

DISTRICT No. 8.—BURNAP.

One term, Miss ELLEN E. PATTERSON, teacher. Miss P. is herself a good scholar, with a mind well poised for imparting instruction; still we are unable, in all respects, to pronounce her school a success. Tolerable progress was made in most branches, but there was a palpable lack of life at the examination. She failed to secure that supremacy in the school-room which is the crowning prerogative of a teacher. But this was not her fault alone. The scholars here are fast becoming ladies and gentlemen; it should therefore be the especial care of the prudential committees, for some time to come, to secure such teachers as have the power to command the respect as well as to secure the love of their pupils.

DISTRICT No. 9.—WATERLOO.

Summer term taught by Miss E. ISABEL COLBURN. The committee did not receive the notice of the examination in season to be present, and therefore visited the school but once. From what we saw and heard, we judge that Miss Colburn's teaching was kind and faithful, and that obvious improvement was made during the term.

Winter term taught by Miss HELEN F. COLLINS. It is pleasant to be able to speak of a school with such unalloyed satisfaction as we can of this. Miss Collins evinced a tact, fidelity and thoroughness of instruction which give the best promise of future usefulness. She secured the good will of her pupils, and at the same time kept them diligent and orderly. The scholars, without one exception, exhibited an intelligent understanding of the studies they had pursued, and a readiness in expressing their knowledge.

DISTRICT No. 10.—COLLINS.

Only one term, taught by Miss P. E. JONES. Her success was good; and it is only to be regretted that there were no more scholars to receive the benefit of her labor. She says in her remarks: "The parents feel an interest in the school, and I hope they will manifest it in the way they have done at the 'Mills,' by building a new school-house."

It may not be out of place to remark here, that your committee have learned with pleasure that a movement is on foot to unite No. 18 and No. 20, and build a new school-house. In a movement of this kind it is inevitable that the interests of the inhabitants must clash more or less; and nothing can, therefore, be more desirable than that the spirit of compromise have plenty of play. True, it costs money to build a school-house, but it costs money to live at all; but

"We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths;

"In feelings, not in figures on a dial.

"We should count time by heart-throbs. He most lives

"Who thinks most,—feels the noblest,—acts the best."

DISTRICT NO. 11.—TORY HILL.

Summer term taught by Miss MARY E. WHITTIER of Webster. It was her first term of teaching. She was kind, efficient, self-possessed and accurate in scholarship. At the examination, the scholars gave evidence of interest and industry. There was a marked improvement during the term, especially in reading.

Winter term taught by Miss JUNIA S. BARTLETT, whose superior merit as a teacher is well known to the people of Warner. We commend especially her habit of cultivating independence of thought and self-reliance in the scholars in reading and recitations. It is much better for scholars to be thrown upon their own resources, receiving only enough help to encourage them and correct their mistakes, than to have everything told them. The new geography was admirably taught, and remarkable progress made in map-drawing for so short a time.

DISTRICT NO. 12.—COUCH.

Both terms were taught by Miss ANN W. HEATH, who has almost become a fixture here, and it is no very bad fix to hold on upon a good teacher, term after term and year after year, when it can be done.

DISTRICT NO. 13.—CENTRE VILLAGE.

Higher Department.—Summer term taught by Miss KATE C. THOMPSON, who deserves the highest praise for the fidelity with which she performed her difficult task. She possesses firmness, tact, cheerfulness and kindness. She is a good instructor, and also has the art of making authority respected, while securing the good-will of her pupils. She truly says, "I have worked hard, and have tried to interest those under my care in their lessons, and to impress on their minds that in order to be respected, they must be ladylike and gentlemanlike in school as well as in other places." We commend also the following extract from her report to the attention of parents: "There is a fault somewhere, or there would not be so many cases of tardiness. Can it be in the teacher? If so, how can she remedy it, if they come to her saying, 'I came as soon as I could; mother wanted me'? If it is at home, can it not be impressed on their parents' minds how much is lost by so doing?"

The winter term was taught by Mr. S. C. PATTEE, who is too well-known as an experienced teacher and friend of education in the town to require our commendation. It is our impression, however, that the past term has been to him one of unusual interest, and to the pupils of unusual good order and progress. We give an extract from his report: "I wish to say a word in regard to the new geography, — Guyot's. Before commencing the school, my opinion as to its workings was rather unfavorable, but I resolved if there was any superiority over the old one, I would bring it out. I threw prejudice aside and went into the work; the result of which I think must convince any one who witnessed the exercises upon the board at the examination, that the new book has superior merits over any other heretofore used in the school. I am more than satisfied with the result. I believe the thorough drill I have given the scholars in constructing maps has laid the foundation of true geographical science on which to build a thorough knowledge of geography." Two small prizes were offered to the scholars for the best maps drawn by themselves, and the results were most commendable. Several of the maps handed in showed great diligence and much success, and the committee had some difficulty in deciding upon their comparative merit. We hope to see further improvement in subsequent terms and also to see the practice of map-drawing introduced into all the schools.

Lower Department. — Both terms taught by Miss RHODA B. THOMPSON, who is admirably fitted, by kindness and fidelity, to secure the affection and interest of the pupils.

We suggest as a question for parents and teachers, whether a larger amount of time might not profitably be given to the oral instruction of the younger children all together, and also whether there could not be a greater variety of employment, such as drawing, &c., for their busy hands and thoughts, to save them from the calamity of sitting still with nothing to do.

DISTRICT No. 15.—GORE.

Only one term, taught by Miss DORA A. ELKINS, who proved herself a good and competent teacher, worthy to instruct a larger school. The number of scholars was very small (during most of the term only three), but they all appeared interested and studious, and recited well.

DISTRICT No. 16.—DAVISVILLE.

The summer term was taught by Miss LOUISE G. ABBOTT, of West Concord. This is Miss A.'s first trial in teaching. We think her capable of teaching a good school; yet many of the district were not entirely pleased with the management. A good school is the result of well directed and earnest labor, both in discipline and teaching. The school is not an advanced or difficult one. Another trial, aided by past experience, will, we doubt not, give better success.

The winter term, taught by Miss MARY F. UNDERWOOD, of Newport, a teacher of large experience, was a complete success. Every department was thoroughly taught. The order was first class. In her report she says: "Scarcely a single instance of disobedience or disrespect was manifested." The examination showed that both teacher and scholars had labored faithfully. The classes in reading and arithmetic were well, yes, very well taught. We regret that we did not succeed in introducing Guyot's geographies in season to have secured the advantage of a trial by so competent a teacher. Fourteen out of the nineteen scholars are reported as not having whispered during the term.

DISTRICT No. 17.—MILLVILLE.

Summer term taught by Miss P. E. JONES. We received no notice of the opening or close of the school, and therefore did not visit it; but have reason to believe that she labored with much fidelity for the right guidance of her pupils, both in scholarship and character.

Mr. JAMES M. PRESBY, of Bradford, taught the winter term. He was efficient, faithful, and greatly interested in the progress of the school. It is noteworthy that both teachers, in their reports, speak of the cordial co-operation they have received from parents and friends in the district, manifested by frequent visits and in other ways. Mr. Presby says: "I have liked the new series of geographies more and more daily; and as a closing act of kindness in my official position, I would earnestly urge a substitution of a new series of readers, in place of the old text-books, which are as familiar to the classes as the order of letters in the alphabet."

DISTRICT No. 18.—COLLEGE.

Summer term taught by Miss MARY E. COLBY. She had but few scholars, yet she did a large amount of work; as was evinced by the fine appearance of the classes on examination day, and the large amount of useful intelligence imparted. Miss Colby must be well known now as one of our most faithful and successful teachers. Failure is not among the incidents of her experience.

The winter term was taught by Miss ELLA F. EATON, who filled the same place one year ago, and all that was then said we now fully endorse.

DISTRICT No. 19.—LIBERTY UNION.

But one term (winter), taught by Miss HELEN B. CARR, of Henniker. Miss C. had never taught before, but she evinced many of the qualities of a good teacher, and the scholars learned well. More life, both in teacher and scholars, was needed. The scholars here stand much in need of more schooling, and we are glad to know that, in some instances, the parents are affording it. Geography was too much neglected.

DISTRICT No. 20.—ROBY'S CORNER.

Only one term, taught by Miss LOUISA C. DOWLIN, who is worthy of the place she holds as one of the best teachers of the town. The scholars, though showing at the beginning of the term the effect of too long absence from school, made excellence progress.

A decided interest was awakened in the new Geography,—in map-drawing and questioning upon the maps.

DISTRICT No. 21.—HOWE.

One term, taught by Miss ANNE M. PIERCE. We made two visits to this school, though not present at the examination. The teacher was evidently doing her duty with energy. Hard work seemed to be her motto, and we cannot doubt that success was the result.

It is desirable to find enthusiasm in the school-room; but enthusiasm, like courage, is contagious. If the teacher has the true fire the torch of every scholar will flame up more or less. If the scholars here get a good education much of it must be obtained at home,—their schooling is too limited.

DISTRICT No. 22.—NEWMARKET.

Both terms taught by Miss JOSEPHINE A. SAVORY. She is a new teacher and deserves the highest meed of praise for the zeal, conscience and ambition that she put into her work. She had good success and earned her wages. To the scholars in this district we would say, read, read, READ at your homes. Your progress has been satisfactory during the past year; don't suffer yourselves to forget what you have learned before you go to school again.

DISTRICT No. 24.—JOPPA.

The summer term was taught by Miss JENNIE A. JACKMAN, and was her first experience. It was a good school. Miss J. is an earnest and persevering worker, and with more experience she will become an excellent teacher.

The winter term was taught by Miss ELSIE S. CLOUGH. The fact that Miss C. taught her first term in this district two years since, with very good success, no doubt prompted them to secure her services again. It was a pleasant school, and the teacher a pleasant and able one. The school appeared well, and sustained its former good reputation.

Respectfully submitted,
